Faceted query

The faceted query sorts different types of data associated with archival resources into logical groups or topics. This data, together with the dynamic map, is used to filter and display results and links to archival resources

Dynamic map

Searching a location through zooming in on the area of interest will display resources for that particular area. The dynamic map will display the administrative units' changes in time and space.

Timeline

Combined with the map or the faceted query, the timeline provides an opportunity to find specific information at a particular point in time. By searching on the location and the time of interest, the results and links to archival resources are dynamically updated.
